UAW officials at the Philadelphia-area Dometic plant have been accused of sending a mass text to employees “illegally threatening their employment if they choose to work during the strike.”

Seven plant employees filed a charge against the union with the National Labor Relations Board in April 2024.

The threatening text reportedly sent by union official Mike Proust said: “There are and will be consequences for crossing the line becoming a scab [sic] you will be put on trial you will be judged by your peers...[you will] have no right to hold or acquire any [union-controlled] job within the plant.”

Past charges against the UAW document other cases of intimidation, including a union steward who told workers that any employee who crossed the UAW’s picket line during the strike would be subject to internal union charges, fined, and ultimately terminated.

“The information in this text [from the UAW] reveals union officials’ real intentions, which is to hurt anyone willing to stand up for themselves. What is happening in this case is completely unjust.”
